Mr. Labouchere's Exclusion From the Cabinet.

MR. GLADSTONE ALONE RESPONSIBLE.

The Cholera Scare—The Lancet's Pessimistic View of the Situation—A Novel Demand for Damages—Hanged Home.

Labouchere's Exclusion From the Cabinet.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Mr. Labouchere has admitted having received the letter stating to have been written to him by Mr. Gladstone, and has also admitted that in the letter Mr. Gladstone assumed the responsibility for the exclusion of Mr. Labouchere from the cabinet.

More than this, as to the contents of the letter, Mr. Labouchere declined to divulge, but he added that the letter would be published in next week's issue of Truth.

Mr. Labouchere declares that he has not altered and will not alter his opinion regarding the influence which caused his exclusion from the cabinet. There is a growing opinion that Mr. Labouchere is making a fuss in order to add to the profits of his paper, which had greatly increased sales this week.

The Times suggests that Mr. Labouchere played to be excluded from the cabinet to enable him to pose as a victim, and adds: "It is probable that Mr. Gladstone, finding Mr. Labouchere disinclined to join the ministry, desired to have his non-acceptance recorded in writing. Mr. Labouchere might at least remember that the queen is precluded by her position from defending herself. The whole affair shows Mr. Labouchere's unfitness to enter the cabinet."

The Standard says: "We are not surprised that Mr. Gladstone set a diplomatic snare for this unruly follower. There is not a particle of evidence, however, to support the conjecture that the queen objected to Mr. Labouchere."

The Cholera.—Everybody is talking about the cholera and the chances of the scourge invading Great Britain. The newspapers are beginning to publish sensational articles, giving full publicity. These, with the dispatches contained in the papers, have a tendency to create public alarm and neutralize any effect which might have otherwise been produced by the calm tone of the official reports of the leading journals, in which the avoidance of worry and apprehension is urged, while the taking of all reasonable precautions is also advised.

The Lancet, taken a pessimistic view of the situation. It is regarded by many as a significant fact, as the Lancet is recognized as a very weighty authority on all matters of this kind. It must be admitted, too, that the Lancet has constantly predicted just what was occurring in connection with the present march of cholera. It uttered its first warning when the epidemic had not reached sufficient proportions in the east to attract general attention. These warnings have been reiterated at every step of the disease westward.

The nature of the disease from which Paris suffered for a time was also exposed by the Lancet, and it was largely due to this exposure that the French government availed to action and succeeded in stamping out the plague before it had reached a formidable stage in the French capital. This paper now takes the ground that there is every reason to expect the advent of the cholera in England. The danger of the hour is to prepare for the invasion as if its coming was assured. For this reason the Lancet advises the immediate opening of training schools for cholera nurses. Unless this training is begun at once, it says, we are likely to find ourselves in the grasp of the epidemic without a staff of nurses capable of attending the sick. The paper declares that the ordinary nursing staffs of hospitals are not equal to the task of dealing properly with cholera patients. A special training is required.

Gen. Porter Asked to Withdraw the Militia from Buffalo.

A PART OF THEM ALREADY GOING HOME.

Others Will Remain While There is a Chance for an Outbreak—Grand Master Sweeney Denounced by Strikers—Other Labor News.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Gen. Porter yesterday morning received the following letter from the sheriff:

Sheriff's Office, Aug. 25. A. J. Porter, New York Militia. The necessity for the presence of the state militia here having ceased, I respectfully request that the troops be withdrawn. I desire to express to you on behalf of our citizens and myself our thanks for the prompt assistance you and those under your command.

Yours respectfully, J. J. Sweeney, Sheriff.

Gen. Porter agreed with the sheriff that a reduction of the force could safely be made and issued orders to that effect. The remainder of the troops will be withdrawn as rapidly as possible.

The troops ordered home yesterday numbered about 1,500, leaving over 5,000 still in the city. Gen. Porter said it was hoped to send them all home today, but they wanted to make no mistake. The old switchmen who did not get back to work may be disposed to make trouble.

Gen. Porter said no more troops would be sent away until those in command are sure they will not be needed. "We will have enough troops," said he, "but we send no more away until we are sure they will not be needed. We have received communications from some of the railroad companies complaining of trouble and danger to their property, and objecting to the speedy withdrawal of the troops. Our military reports of yesterday morning bear out the statements of the railroad companies. I have just now heard of some one being shot and three prisoners taken. We are going to stay here until the rioting is stopped, if it takes all summer," concluded Gen. Porter.

Grand Master Sweeney Denounced. BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—An intemperate feeling has developed against Grand Master Sweeney among the late strikers, who consider that they have been duped and betrayed by him. One of them stated that Sweeney had given the men no chance to get their claims back again. If he had given them an intimation, Wednesday, that he intended to declare the strike off, or had held it until today, the men say they would have had a chance to see their former employers and make terms with them. But declaring the strike off at midnight gave them no chance.

"Sweeney had better get out of town and get out quick," was the remark of one of the bitterly disappointed men. A committee of switchmen who struck on the Lackawanna called on General Manager Halstead yesterday and asked that the men be allowed to go back. They have hopes that their request will be granted.
